

ing was held by them at a later date. Mr. Rudyk was well received.

Secretary-Governor's Remarks.
Mr. J. Galbraith, secretary of the association, was called upon, and his remarks were brief. He said the administration of the city was timely. He also referred to Edmonton's administration of the city. There was, he said, in Edmonton, a system of land taxation which was perhaps the best in the country. In the operation of the propaganda of Henry George in this city was being observed, and he was glad to see that it had attained by the single tax system what was late alone could not do.

Improvements were suggested.

He advised the announcement of the election of a new mayor, but no improvements. He would have the two third clause in the charter governing passed, which would give the bare majority of the ratepayers.

He considered the charter should be revised, and for "mayor" in the clause, "The commissioners may act to the petition of the people." The method of bookkeeping in vogue at the city hall. Even after a careful examination of the accounts of the city he could not characterize it in any other way than "a labyrinth of figures." It was infinitely easier to understand the financial statement of the provincial government than the head of tail of the city's statements.

He drew attention to the fact that in the course of the year many items of "surpluses" were prominent. He considered it a mistake to use the term "surplus."

Every cent was accounted for.

Dealing with the commission system, he advised the adoption of a system of rating their employees, the system still being in an experimental stage. He believed the system gave one hundred per cent of confidence in which these civic administrative experts were clothed. This was desirable, under the circumstances, to an extreme.

Herold Editor Speaks.

Mr. Gustav Kettner, editor of the Alberta Herold, explained that the purpose of his appearance was to advise the members of the council of the German ratepayers had been called for Nov. 18, and at this meeting all of the German ratepayers, all of whom he declared were in sympathy with the association, objected.

This year, he said, the East end had received a fair share of improvements. The new streetcar line from the East End had made itself felt at the last municipal election, at which this party had received the largest number of three out of the five candidates endorsed. Still the East end was not satisfied.

Last summer the slaughter house owned and operated by Williamson Bros., in the West End, was closed due to a menace to the health of the community, but was a nuisance, and should have been allowed to remain in its present location.

There was also the question of the paving of 10th Street. This was a paving contract called for the extension of the pavement to Kinston avenue, but it did not extend to 10th Street, the city where was the greatest traffic, the council had decided to have from 10th Street to Kinston avenue, to meet the wishes of the West end.

The reason for this was in order to provide the West end with a better road for horses and automobiles. This remark was greeted with laughter.

The Herold editor said that the attempt made by the council to arrest the erection of the incendiary plant in the downtown was successful.

The Mayoralty Candidates.

In referring to the mayoralty candidates, he said the city was home to the fact that two such admittedly successive candidates should have been chosen as to offer the greatest service in the service of the city. Then he called on Mr. McDougall.

Mr. McDougall was given a hearty reception. He was cheered. He said he was glad to be present at the meeting and to have the opportunity to ask the suffrages of the voters. He was a member of the city, Mr. McDougall was a member, a applicant for a franchise to supply the city with power, and the municipal enterprise had been the outcome of his efforts.

He said the war was over with the world, and the movement. In fact, he was an Eastender himself by reason of owning property there.

He had reduced the price of electric light rates this year and would reduce the water rates if possible later on.

He said he was very honored with election to the mayoralty his effort would be to work in the interests of the whole city.

Before the questions were asked the chairman called upon the meeting by the name of the Association, and the endorsement of the objects of the East and movement, and to pledge hearty support to the candidates, and to support to the aforesaid candidates which the executive intended offering for election.

The Question.

The gentleman in the audience then asked the question of Mr. Ald. Picard: "Did you at any time say that the East end was getting as many improvements as the West end?"

"I might have," replied Ald. Picard. "What will you do for us if you are elected?"

"I will do everything within my power in the interests of the whole city."

Here the chairman interposed with the remark that it could be fairly assumed that both Ald. Picard and Mr. McDougall were in favor of the East end movement, and he refused to permit any further cross-examination of Ald. Picard.

From Day to Day

THE COLONIAL IN ENGLAND.

It is said that garden all rose-grown,
Or muffed lawn and dolorous lawn
A land of languid rivers and repose,
And tried green and quiet rain?An ordered land that broods on yes,
Of hearts content with other years,Of hunting dogs and hills that have but one name.

A country old in time and tears!

But, oh! my heart goes, homesick, back today—
Back to the wide, wide prairie's sweep, sweep,

sunset near,

Back where the great white Rockies

For I am tired of dusk and dream and rose,

Of ghosts and glorious dead and dust,

I want the outland trail, the upward sweep,

The New World and the widening dawn!

THE KINDERGARTEN.

All the mothers of the world would be glad if the qualified mother had not such a multiplicity of things to do. The care of the children is often all too limited; if the education of women did not leave so severely alone the care in life, the care and development of children—that is, kindergarten would be easier.

But as none of these conditions exist, kindergarten is somewhat like a double-edged sword; it gives all the more necessary that the trend of the time is materialistic.

So it is a pleasure recently to receive a report from Mrs. Wetherell's class on Seventh Avenue, and note the many effective means of letting a child develop not through external facts told to him, bounded by the teacher, but by his own experience, and through what he learns through the experience of his environment.

He does not learn his environment as we do, but is born into it, and from week to week by his teacher, that the song he sings and the story he reads, and the story all taught something of winter.

Even the tiny carpet in the drawing room, and the picture on the wall they were made to guess it is one of the things "Mother" must store away for him.

Learning in this manner is a delight, the child's individuality being allowed to grow and develop.

His preferences are taken into consideration, the kindergarten mother believing in freedom without limit.

She holds us to our best, and deeply attracts us without our being able to say why.

It is a question to our minds the less valuable because we cannot comprehend it. And so the child is left to select that which is best for him.

garden" work and play and sing

Street Car Conductor Killed.

Winning, Nov. 9.—As a street car, with its little schoolroom bunch at which the little one's assimilate as quickly as possible certain manners.

All the while the too timid child is growing, developing the too hasty, young and elevated, the too childlike, and the less fortunate child, to whom nature has in some way been miserably unkind.

That first kindergarten (children's garden) at Thurso, Ontario, not only evolved the highest plan of child development, but it secured the services of the most brilliant teacher in the world over all reaching a higher development because of it.

Maker's hands, with its untold possibilities, is a marvellous thing to consider, may be an inspiration or a dread, according to the fitness of the person.

The teacher, however, who knows instinctively or which, if she does not know it, is apt to forget her own training, and also accepts the motto, "Work for her work's sake in the golden future we are told all mothers will do."

Boyd's Boyd's

Edmonton, Twenty-Four Years Ago

From the Old Files of The Bull's Eye, Saturday, November 8th, 1883.

Sledding fairly good but not too good. A. D. Osborne leaves Winnipeg for Edmonton on the 14th inst.

D. S. McKay has moved from town to his farm on Livingston's creek.

Mail from St. Louis on Wednesday next, the first of the fortnightly trips.

It is probable that a rescue party of river claimers in this settlement will be made.

A scene of somnambulism occurred on Main street Sunday morning about daybreak.

Snow fell on Wednesday to the depth of about two inches. The first shooting of the season.

T. Smith threshed 10,000 bushels of grain this fall. Wheat and barley in equal proportions.

M. Deans, D.L.S., is surveying the claims on the south side of the river at Fort Saskatchewan.

R. Ross is opening up a coal drift on the north side of the river at the foot of the grade to the Edmonton hotel.

It is reported the C. P. R. will open up communication with Calgary up to the first of January.

B. McGillivray left Wednesday with his family for Calgary, following the river at Horwitz.

F. Chable, who was severely injured in the fire two weeks ago, is improving. He is still at the St. Albert hospital.

A buckboard in charge of B. McGillivray and others came to grief between the Edmonton hotel and the Fort.

The collections in the Presbyterian church on Sunday amounted to $42.75. The cost of the improvements made amounted to $40.

A large quantity of timber in boats and barges is now on the south side of the river waiting for the ice to thickness before crossing.

A well is being dug on Chief Factor

Hansberry's lots on the H. B. Co. reserve. C. Sanderson is the contractor and he is bound to reach water or oil.

A Friday fell through, but was safely taken out. Other horses crossed without accident on the same day.

Owing to the stoppage of work, on the C. P. R. and the closing down of the stores, many men are out of employment. Wages $20 to $35 a month and board for the winter.

On Tuesday parties began crossing the river on the ice at the lower end of the mills, while below that point it will still open clear across. Very little of the ice formed here as the weather was warm during the greater part of the time, the days being considerably so.

J. Colman commenced on Thursday to census the four townships belonging to the Edmonton district, which are situated lying between Edmonton and Fort Saskatchewan, not including the part which lies west of the fort. The census is being taken on behalf of the lumber company.

Statistical information is being taken on behalf of the government in regard to the amount of improvements, crops, stock, acreage, yield of grain, etc., and the census together with a general retrospect of the year is desired, rather than as relates to the inhabitants.

Three men from Miles' survey party, who have been at work all summer in the Blackfoot country between the Bow and Red Deer rivers, and also on the north side of the Red Deer, have just returned. They are well pleased with the Edmonton country, and say that the summer has been all summer.

J. Stanton, who has been employed for the past year at Lee's in Bieche, erecting a grist mill for Peter Pounder, has just completed his work. It is a fine mill building, and is erected on the dam finished. It now remains for the machinery to be put in. It is hardly likely the mill will be running this season.

The judgment upholds the Trade Mark Act, and holds that the use of "Underwear" is a warning to dealers and show manufacturers who may wish to imitate the name. The court held that it was used in a high order of commercial integrity in the use by competitors of a name under which they had been trading for a number of years, whether that name is strictly a Trade Mark or is descriptive of quality. The court held that the defendant's flicking attempt to obtain the reputation of another, the use of any form of "Underwear" is a violation of the Trade Mark by any manufacturer of shoes is clearly a misnomer, and an evidence of fraud.

INFRINGEMENT A TRADE MARK.

Winnipeg Shoe Dealer Promised He Would Not Do It Again.

An interesting case was tried recently in Winnipeg where the State Shoe Company asked for an injunction to restrain a shoe dealer who formerly had the State Shoe name from displaying the name "State" in his advertising and advertising does not make by the State Shoe Company. The court held that the dealer had the power or the hasty reader lead the public to believe that he was still selling the belief that he was still selling the State Shoes.

The court refused the injunction in the technical ground that the defendant had not again given the State Shoe Company cause for complaint.

"We have not used it, we have no desire to use it again," he told the judge.

He further stated that the advertising was not misleading, that he had no knowledge, and that he had not believed the advertisement as published had led anyone to believe that he was handling the State Shoes.

The State Shoe Company complained that the defendant had aggravated the offence charged by breaking a promise he had made to the court.

He argued that it was necessary because in his mind a suspicion that the words "State" were so printed to take away the right of the State Shoe Company to use the name.

State Shoes acquired under that name, but "I cannot say that it amounts to much in a business way," he said.

He had said that his advertising clerk had inserted the advertisement without his knowledge, and that he had no "real evidence," and Judge Mathews held that the advertisement was inserted in the firm in which it appeared, and that he was allowed to continue after it had come to his notice. I should therefore hold the case was not ripe for trial, and the court adjourned to Dec. 16 L.T.N.S. 211, wherein the defendant, although his name was Cash, was ordered to stand with his goods as "Trade Fitting."

THE KING'S BIRTHDAY.

Kings' Birthday—Said to be sixty-six years old today. In accord with established custom a Royal proclamation has been issued fixing May 24th next as the date for public celebration of the event; there can be no question of a holiday so long observed at the "birthday." Her late Majesty Queen Victoria. This of course entitles her to the rank of national character, and the only national acknowledgement was the royal salute fired from all the fortifications of the Empire. Nevertheless, it will be remembered by millions of loyal Britons the world over whose wish for their King will be long life and happiness.

OVERHAUL THE DRAFT AGREEMENT.

A few days ago the Bulletin published the draft of a proposed agreement between the city and the company. It can be seen that the company can do little. On the other hand, to a natural gas franchise. Very clearly the draft was prepared by the company. It may be assumed, therefore, that it contains practically all that the company wants and practically nothing that the company is prepared to give up. Offered as the basis for negotiation it is reasonable to suppose that the only concern of the party offering it was to make their interests plain, letting it to the city authorities as the best arrangement possible of the city. It is up to the city solicitor, the commissioners and the city council now to see that clauses are inserted fully defining and safeguarding the interests of the city, and particularly to discussing the granting of the franchise. Otherwise the letter of the agreement may very well be obscured or neglected in the considerations of the general question, and the letter of the agreement is an all important factor.

Among the clauses of the draft there does not appear to be any undertaking by the company to supply gas to those who can afford to do so. The first provision which should be remedied. The only purpose of the city in granting a franchise would be to secure a gas supply and an agreement conferring a franchise should contain a statement that it is understood that the ability to supply gas before securing the franchise, and must supply the gas after securing it. Ability to deliver the goods and an understanding to do so, should be the first provision to the sounding of the company. The city should insist that any company given the privilege of laying gas mains must produce evidence that they have gas to deliver through the mains and must undertake to deliver it.

Nor does there appear to be any provision in the event of the company finding themselves unable to deliver gas. If they can't do it, then in case of emergency, that they install mains throughout the city, and provide all the gas they can secure, the city under the draft has no power whatever to insist that they do so. Under these circumstances, we would surely be in an unfortunate position. With our streets underlaid by mains we would have no gas—or an insufficient supply. The result would be that other franchises must be given so that the city could have to go into the business itself. In either event it would mean more tunnelling and trenching on the streets with the inevitable expense of higher maintenance and the addition of a great potential burden of fixed charges on unnecessary mains and equipment. In the interests alike of the company and the city a clause should be inserted establishing that the company may lay mains within the city at a fair valuation if and when the company should find themselves unable to meet the demand for gas.

There is no limit to the franchises proposed in the draft. It would run forever. If at any future time the city should find itself able to procure a gas supply on better terms the present franchise would stand in the way. It would be necessary for the company to cover the city with mains and force the city to pay their price if a change were desired. This is hardly in accord with the experience of municipalities in relation to such corporations. The franchise should be limited according to the conditions which franchises are granted to-day. To provide for the future it should be made possible for the city to take over the company's equipment at a fair price at regularly recurring periods of say five or ten years, or as an alternative that the franchise be limited to a certain period, subject to re-evaluation.

It is by no means clear that the franchise asked for would not be exclusive. So, then, in the event of the company being either unable or unwilling to supply gas, the muddling would usually be worse than the original. We are compelled to assume that the city's interests could be protected, an exclusive franchise would possess certain advantages to the city over non-exclusive franchises. But this has not been demonstrated. We are, indeed, a great proportion of the ranks of the unemployed are recruited from the rural areas. What is the man and what we need above all is the man and woman who work and who are natural and likable in itself, and work hard because the desire to labor is prompted by a laudable ambition. It is with the man with a proud spirit who aims at success—the lineal descendants of those forefathers who came out of the streams and grit to carve out of the forest primeval homes for themselves and their families. Such good courage and fortitude and the privations that were inflicted upon the pioneer days are to be repeated now in anything like the same degree.

"Let there be no mistake about the right for the supply of gas to consumers other than those who are in a position to pay the bill. The position in which the city will not consent for a moment. That is omitted from the draft is probably due to the confidence of the company that the city would not overlook a detail of such a slight consequence. We believe that the settlement of the detail will involve some negotiation.

Altogether the draft would be better if it had a thorough going over.

The haulage would be better done as preliminary to the main question of whether or not a franchise will be granted.

The ground would thus be cleared, and the general conditions of which the city would consider the granting of a franchise definitely laid down.

ON THE SIDE.

Municipal nominations three weeks from Monday, elections one week later.

Calgary is again discussing the Commissioner question. The point of the controversy appears to be whether or not the prospective incumbents are worth the money.

Calgary Albertan: "It had been expected that Mr. Seton, the Setonian, would be the only one who would be elected to the mayoralty of Calgary, but after spending the day in Edmonton he concluded that he had seen enough wild animals to last him a lifetime, so he decided to return home again. Once we know the superiority of Calgary, and admit that Mr. Seton missed his chance. The gentle and mild creatures he encountered here cannot be classed with the notorious, ferocious, and persistent application. These are the men that Canada needs most, and with whom our eyes are most constantly turned."

"Mr. Charles Booth has pointed out that men of country will have difficulty in getting elected. In fact, in the straggling masses we get a fair proportion of suitable immigrants for our vast land but little we have to offer them. The "Setonites," the speaker, or the trifler. We want the men who know that there is room for the man with a knowledge of farming, or at least, with agricultural instincts, and who has recognized that there is no royal road to success except through hard work and persistent application. These are the men that Canada needs most, and with whom our eyes are most constantly turned."

Edmonton's Banking InstitutionsTHE MOLSON'S BANK

The unique distinction of having a reserve fund equal to its paid-up capital is one which the Molson's Bank, which received its charter in March, fifty-two years ago, having been in existence longer than any other bank in Canada for several years previous to that date. The private bank was established by John Molson, son of the brewer of Montreal, while the chartered bank was established by his sons, William and Alexander. The first directors of the bank were William Molson, president; Hon. John withstanding the conservative policy of the bank which consists rather in the safety than in the size of the fund. It has attained the reputation of being one of the strongest banks in Canada and over one-third of its total assets are at present held in the form of gold. These, as shown by the bank's latest statement, make a handsome total.

Last Statement.—The statement recently issued gives the following statistics:

The local branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, which is the largest bank in the Dominion, and over one-third of its total assets are at present held in the form of gold.

The bank does not favor the policy of starting quickly in the smaller towns, east or west, but as a list of the towns in which it has branches shows, centres of commercial life. Its branches are situated in large part in Ontario.

The net profits of the past year were according to the recent statement $64,400, after all provisos had been made for the payment of dividends. This year was pronounced on the whole the most successful in the history of the bank. Five years ago the bank's paid-up capital amounted to $200,000; its reserve fund to $100,000; its minimum bank deposits to $5 per cent., and its dividends to $5,600. The progress was steady from year to year, the growth of the reserve fund being particularly notable.

The board of directors include at present William Molson, president; S. H. Ewing, Wm. Ramsay, J. C. Cleghorn, H. Marland, M. A. W. McLean, F. D. Drummond, James Elliot, general manager, A. D. Durand, chief inspector, W. W. Campbell, C. Chisholm, and J. H. Campbell, assistant inspectors.

PRESTONIAN FUNDS

Power to Board of Management
Aged Five.

Ottawa, Nov. 7.—Application will be made next session by the managers of the Presbyterian Church of Canada in connection with the Synod of Canada for an act of amending the Statutes of the Church so as to provide that the fund shall be chosen from profits arising from the sale of lands and other assets of the church congregation and amendment being constituted to the benefit of framers and members and others in good standing in the Presbyterian Church of Canada.

Halloway's Want Increase.—Toronto, Nov. 9.—Engineers and firemen of the Royal Canadian Engineers have voted to increase their salaries by 10 per cent. and the same amount is to be voted by the members of the Association of Engineers and Surveyors of Canada. The increase will be effective January 1, 1898.

EDMONTON BRANCH OF THE MOLSON'S BANK, OPENED MAY 1, 1896.

G. W. SWAISLAND, MANAGER.

Capital paid up $ 3,960,170.
Surplus 1,000,000.
Total assets 33,739,244.

The head office of the bank in Montreal, an imposing grey stone structure, looks long enough to have taken on the tint of the Mount Royal sandstone, a landmark on St. James street. From this over sixty branches have been established throughout Canada, and added to yearly out of the profits of the bank, yet during the fifty-two years of its existence the bank has not failed to pay a dividend averaging more than 5 per cent. The stock has now a double value, selling from 200 to 212, as evidence of the exceptionally secure character of the bank.

The large reserve fund is of particular benefit in just such times as the present, when the value of money is everywhere. Then this large fund of more than $3,000,000 is readily available.

Although the building in which the branch has been secured until a handsome bank building shall be put up, the present building is a fine one, consisting of a two-story building of concrete blocks that present an excellent imitation of the style of architecture of the British Columbia fir, utilized for the banking offices and private office of the branch. The local branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, which is the largest bank in the Dominion, and over one-third of its total assets are at present held in the form of gold.

The net profits of the past year were according to the recent statement $64,400, after all provisos had been made for the payment of dividends. MONEY CRAZE DETERIORATES

MONEY HAS ITS VALUE, BUT IS WORTHLESS AT PRICE OF HIGHER TRAITS.

In the course of a sermon delivered at Ottawa on Thanksgiving day, Rev. Dr. Herridge, an eloquent preacher, made telling comment on the present-day love of wealth and luxury and ambition for social position. "It will be well," he said, "if at the end of the present time ten years it makes less money than it does now. The truth is, that as a people, we are putting altogether too much emphasis on the material side of life, while our vision of life is becoming distorted by the foolish idea that money makes the man. Now, can any man who has not seen how prevalent is the epidemic of the greed of gain. In some cases, money may be all that is wanted. For himself, perhaps, he has other ambitions.

THE ULTRA SOCIAL DISPLAY.

But those dependent upon him are very often social ambitions; they depend upon their money to live up to the standard in the rival progress, and in order to do so, they must wear the most fashionable clothes, the most expensive dinner, and push themselves in every possible way into the light of society. And the result is that the vulgar as it can be, and it is apt to be dangerous, too. For the man who has money, and who cannot pay them through the unromantic medium of his ordinary income, must either go into gambling, it exploits a gold mine, or takes a "flier" on the stock exchange.

Persons of wealth are not alone, but the inconsiderate selfishness of others makes him appear avaricious, and the world at large will see him as a pauper, or blossom out into the appearance of a millionaire. But, in reality, the men of wealth in Ottawa are living beyond their means, in some cases, perhaps, because they are compelled to do so, and in others, that an unpleasant harvest is in store for every one of them.

THE ULTRA SOCIAL DISPLAY.

"It is high time that, as a people, our thought was turned from the exterior to the interior, and the higher appreciation of the worth of intellect and the worth of character. It is high time that the man who is content with modest means will become a man curiously, in the eyes of the world, and be envied mad. Of course, money has its uses. We ought all to rejoice that Canada is rich, and that we have a little of it comes our way. When money falls into the right hands, it is money well spent. But the want of it, especially with those of cultivated taste, often a serious handicap.

MONEY'S POWER LIMITED.

"But, after all, the power of money is limited, and it does not make appreciable appreciation of the best forms of art, or music, or literature, or the more important of the man's possessions of his body politic. The man of high moral life. The man of culture often arises from poverty or want. A spirit of exultation takes the place of the exultations beyond the reach of those whom good fortune is concentrated upon a generous soul.

"If one is rich within, he will not be so frantically eager to be rich without. He who learns that wealth and money are not synonymous terms, that the most valuable treasure is not to be measured by the size of his bank account, will find for this century: 'As ye would that men should do to you, do ye even to them.'

WHAT IS TRUE WEALTH?

"It seems to me, therefore, that the present pause in our affairs is not an unmixed evil. Dramatic medicines are needed, and the social diseases of the body politic. It will be fortunate for us if the depression that now exists in our country is not too deep and dismally, if it helps us to a better understanding of relative values. It will be fortunate for us into the channel of self-culture, if it holds more firmly upon our shoulders the burden of responsibility, and causes us to discern what is the true wealth of nations, and how it may be most profitably used.

DEBACH OF PROSPERITY.

Referring to the present strained condition of business, Mr. Dr. Herridge said:—"But this condition of things is a sad one. Good times we have enjoyed so long, and would never have come to pass without them. It is obvious that we have been getting nothing to lose. The wealth of this country has grown by leaps and bounds, and, in many ways, in many cases it has grown faster than common sense. The morning after a stupendous night of revelry, the most seasoned drinker, and Canada at the present time in suffering the results of a night of debauch, is likely to say: 'Money is tight' now because it has been too loose before. We have seen the results of the debauch of things that we think we cannot do without, and extravagance has crept upon us, and we are paying for it. We have been induced to discount the future in the hope that the future will have still greater gains in store."

SYSTEM TOPSY-TURVY.

"Sportsmen have had a kind ofmania which has seized all classes of the community, from peddler to banker, from the housewife in our kitchens or the promoters who concocted their little schemes in the back room of their office, to the self-styled capitalist in his insistence on a share of the good things which come to others. The question of whether the right quality or not, is strongly engendered with reference to pay. And so, the sportsman, the capitalist, and of production, joined to a wider demand for luxuries on the part of those who can afford them, or think they can, we have experienced prices everywhere. The poor man is being paid about until he scarcely knows whether any corner of the earth will furnish him a home. He is prepared in his power of making money by the present condition of affairs, and the poor man, and the workers, who the end will tell.

A Pathetic Spectacle.

"And thus the curious and almost pathetic spectacle presents itself to us of a country which has abundance of resources and abundance of room for development, but which has not been prepared in any way to develop them, lettered by the bonds of circumstances, and the lack of energy and will to think to turn up that will break its chains and open the door of freedom. The man of wealth, the capitalist, for a little quiet moralizing; and when he is dead in church or not, it will make little difference. The truth is, that as a people, we are putting altogether too much emphasis on the material side of life, while our vision of life is becoming distorted by the foolish idea that money makes the man. Now, can any man who has not seen how prevalent is the epidemic of the greed of gain. In some cases, money may be all that is wanted. For himself, perhaps, he has other ambitions.

"Mr. Slemon, what are you doing?" I asked.

"I am a physician, Dr. Davenport," he replied.

"What can I do for you?"

"Mr. Slemon—There is not much you can do for me, but I have heard you are well known, and I am here to tell you something of what you have done, and to express my gratitude."

"Mr. Slemon, tell me your story. We are always glad to know that we, or the remedies we represent, have given great service."

FINE STONE 60 MILES UP RIVER

An Industry of Importance to City—Will Reduce Cost of Building.

An industry which gives every promise of being of considerable importance to this city, exists in the stone quarries situated on the North Saskatchewan river in the northwest quarter of section 30, township 59. These quarries are operated under long term lease by the Western Timber and Mines Co., Ltd., of Edmonton.

Until recently stone was not much favored among the numerous natural resources of Alberta, except in the Edmonton district and northern Alberta. A supply of building stone has been unknown up to the present, and builders and contractors have been compelled to import stone by the fact that it was necessary to import building stone. This importance of building in the city, for in all foundations of brick buildings exterior stone is used imported stone is required.

But if the expectations of the Western Timber and Mines Company materialized, there will be stone at the door of the city sufficient to build another favorable report from Engineers. The company compensated Franklin Sinclair, architect, to inspect the property, and examine the stone, and he has submitted his report, impressing the fact upon the members of the company that they possess a promising future.

The stone is a bluish whinstone resembling in texture the limestone at Quebec. Hence the name through and history. Ontario stone made famous by General Brock's garrison.

The technical description of the stone made by the engineer is as follows: "The stone is hard and compact, approaching the hardness of a quartzite sandstone. It might be formed a siliceous rock possessing great hardness and strength."

The durability of a rock of this character is equal to that of granite, by the fact that it requires limestone, much used in paving streets, in making culverts after sales.

BIE, B. C. Pow-Wow.
Vancouver, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Wm. Evans, of St. Albans avenue, Wexford, was taken ill last night while her house was on fire. The slate roof broke out in the kitchen from the inside, and the house was soon on fire while the neighbors were extinguishing the blaze. Both patients are doing well.

Difficulties of Collections, the Cause.
Vancouver, Nov. 9.—Sixty men were laid off by the local branch of the Canada furniture manufacturers last week, and the number will increase because it is not due to lack of business, but to the difficulty experienced in making collections after sales.

Pacific Steamer Went on Rock.
Vancouver, Nov. 9.—The steamer "Tsunami" came in from the Pacific on the 8th from the first quarter. It stated that the stone, which has been stored at a deeper level, is superior to that of any other stone building.

Experts declare the stone to be superior to the Calgary sandstone, the quality of sandstone from the Winnipeg quarries being alone in the market.

Thus Scott, a stonemason, who knows good stone when he sees it, having visited the quarries in the United States and later in nearly every stone centre in Canada, says it is better than the American.

Can Be Readily Transported.

The quarry plant used this summer, the cost of which was $100 per ton, was taken out, a number of tons used in Strathcona's new high school building. The stone in the school was from the first quarter. It stated that the stone, which has been stored at a deeper level, is superior to that of any other stone building.

Experts declare the stone to be

Thus Scott, a stonemason, who knows good stone when he sees it, having visited the quarries in the United States and later in nearly every stone centre in Canada, says it is better than the American.

It is deformed, the texture is sufficiently hard to make it durable, and it is easily transported for purposes. In fact, the British Columbia Co., who hold the contract for street paving, have engaged the services of the Western Timber and Mines Co., for the purchase of large quantities of stone for paving purposes for this purpose, and has proven eminently satisfactory.

Stone may also be used for monumental purposes, a fact which puts beyond a question of a doubt its durability.

The quarry is situated right on the banks of the Saskatchewan river, at a point where there are no shipping facilities. The main quarrying on the rock is about forty feet above the water, and the water is about six inches deep, and there is a small stream of water running the same thickness along the bottom of the rock, and this has a portage of six feet. The minimum bed is five feet six inches in width, and there is a similar stream of water running the same thickness along the banks of the river, and I am satisfied that the main bed of rock

The executive of the Alberta Temperance and Moral Reform League met last night at the Hotel Cecil, the hall being filled by the absence of the majority of the members, no business was transacted.

The operations connected with the enlargement of McDonald's Methodist church are about completed, and the addition will be used on Sunday. The session of the Board of Governors has been increased by 200.

Bench warrants have been issued by Chief Justice Sillars, Mr. Walter Reid, Mr. G. H. Smith, Mr. James Robertson who failed to put in an appearance at the Supreme court to answer a charge of assault and battery, and to be at their homes in Vegreville.

The last meeting of the board of directors of the Edmonton Y.M.C.A. was held on Saturday, Sept. 10, at 8 a.m. Rev. C. M. McDonald, Division 10, was appointed chairman of the committee to plan the new building. Both are very capable men in their way, and the Association is to be congratulated on their choice.

NEW NOVEMBER CHURCH.

The Methodist church on St. Peter's was in regular condition and will be opened on Sunday, November 17. The building is a frame structure, 30 x 45 feet, and will be used for the time being for the education of the children. It is thought that the building may supply the need of the community for some time.

The donations for the building ranged for Sunday, November 17th. They will consist of two services on Sunday at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. and a Sunday school rally at three o'clock in the afternoon. Prominent men of the community and members of the church will be present. On the Monday evening following, a concert and luncheon will be given in the hall. The hall will open at 7 o'clock. Rev. A. J. Law has been the pastor of the mission since its inception in July.

SLOW WORK ON THE LORIMER.

The work on installation of the long distance telephone system at the central telephone exchange is progressing slowly and it is doubtful if the system will be in operation this winter. The cause of the delay is the dampness of the building, owing to the wet summer. Those in charge say that the wiring is now dry and the machinery in the building is thus thoroughly dry and that condition is being reached very slowly.
